SAY IT WITH SAVINGS BONDS, SANTA

"Say It With Savings Bonds, Santa," seems to be what Polly Bergen, stage and screen, and television star, is telling Santa Claus as he caddles under a holly wreath decorated with United States Savings Bonds. Santa might very well be telling Polly about the Treasury's new gift booklets of U. S. Savings Bonds now available at all post offices in $2.50 and $5.00 sizes. Both Polly and Santa agree that U. S. Savings Bonds and Savings Stamps make ideal gifts for all occasions. Miss Bergen may be seen regularly on CBS-TV "To Tell the Truth" and in a forthcoming Broadway play "Faster, Faster."

PRICES LEVEL

Prices of everyday necessities will settle down for the next six to nine months, predict the editors of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine. There may be mild increases in the price of hi-fi shoes and plumbing equipment.

Use a plastic bag and rollie-pin to make bread or rice crumbs, saves cleaning a messy table.

"PEACE ON EARTH GOODWILL TO MEN"

These words from a beloved Christmas Carol express the feeling that Christmas brings each year. Right now is a good time for all of us to visit the church or temple of our choice and ask for the help that can make this a better world.

Personally, we are particularly fortunate because our profession, the practice of pharmacy, permits us to have the medicines and health-aids so helpful to your healthier living. We gratefully thank all of you for giving us the opportunity to serve and wish you and yours—

ELECTRIC CO-OP PAYS $5,633.70 TAX TO COFFEE

Property tax paid in Coffee county for 1958 amounted to $5,633.70.

The total 1958 direct tax bill of the two Andalusia electric cooperatives amounted to almost $81,000. Included was a special hydro electric tax payment of $19,653.72 made by Alabama Electric Cooperative on the electric power generated at its hydro-electric power plant at Gunt and River Falls in Covington county, and at Elba in Coffee county. This tax goes almost exclusively for educational purposes.

Since beginning operations in September of 1944, the two electric cooperatives which have their headquarters at Andalusia have paid almost three quarters of a million dollars in direct taxes.

Electric cooperatives pay all taxes said by commercial utilities, with the single exception of income tax. The electric co-ops are non-profit utilities.

Alabama Electric Cooperative supplies electric power at wholesale to the cities of Andalusia, Opp, Troy, Brundidge, Lurven, and Elba, and to these REA distribution cooperatives, Covington Electric, Andalusia Wiregrass Electric, Hartford South Alabama Electric, Troy, Pea River Electric, Oak, Southern Pine Electric, Flowanna, and Choctawhatchee Electric, DePueville Springs, Fla.

The municipalities and co-operatives which secure their wholesale electric power from Alabama Electric Cooperative serve more than 40,000 farms, homes, businesses and industries.

Nice kitchen sinks, built-in cabinets, walk-in closets, 220 wiring, well lighted and included equipment, windows with shades, nice tile floors.

It depends upon what's happening in your county to the acreage reserve of the soil bank. . . . unless there are some changes next year, there won't be a reserve and some cotton acreage that was in the reserve may be abandoned.

... the acreage should be released to the county Agriculture Stabilization & Conservation (ASC) committee for realignment but chances are this isn't being done. . . . check now with your ASC committee and try to track down acreage that is being abandoned—it could mean a lot more cotton acreage for your county, acreage that will be lost to cotton otherwise.

Production Meet

A half-day cotton production meeting is slated for December 17-18 at Houston, Texas. . . . sponsored by the National Cotton Council, the meeting will concern itself with "growing cotton for profit and markets". . . . could prove profitable to anybody who attends.

Some textile mills are giving longer holidays and stretching out their cotton operations as much as possible. . . . reason is they feel that the '59 crop is going to be available at prices more competitive with man-made fibers. . . . seems reasonable for them to take steps to enter the '59 season with as low an inventory as possible. . . . this combination of a more competitive price and low inventories should lead to a healthier and freer market.

The Sandman Came First

She thought she'd wait up for Santa. The sandman came first. But she'll have no regrets when she wakes up tomorrow. Christmas is so wonderful, it doesn't really matter whether you heard the reindeer's hoofs on the roof or saw the jolly old elf open his pack.

Like the heart of Christmas, it's not important that we weren't at Bethlehem... we didn't see the star... we didn't kneel at the manger. We can even erase the years when Christmas has found us tangled in tinsel and asleep to God.

For Christ is born! The hopes and fears of all the years have melted into one eternal Truth.

A gift is ours when we awake to discover it, reach for it, cling to it.

The Christ men worship in their churches and homes is God's gift to you and me.

Give a gift of peace this Christmas

Daddy took this picture. He's with his family this Christmas. And he will be as long as the world's at peace.

But peace costs money. Money for industrial and military strength to keep the peace. Money for science and education to help make peace lasting. And money saved by individuals—which helps keep our economy strong. Every U. S. Savings Bond you give this Christmas helps strengthen America's Peace Power.

MANY FACTORS ENTER BUYING FAMILY HOUSE

You shouldn't let those rules-of-thumb as "pay no more than two and a half times your income" guide you when you buy a house. These formulas just don't allow for important individual differences, say the editors of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine.

Take family size, for instance. A family with several children needs a bigger house and may have to spend more of its money on a house than a childless couple would. Even the children's ages matter. If they are near college age, you would not want to commit too much future income to paying off a mortgage.

Rules-of-thumb encourage you to buy on the basis of this year's income. According to the editors, your true buying ability depends on future income. A man whose income will be reduced by retirement will

Pyramids and Castles to Explore

The mystery of pyramids and the impressive grandeur of massive stone castles continue to lure visitors to Egypt and Syria, as they did even before the days of Marco Polo. Egypt has some eighty pyramids which extend from Cairo to the Nile. Syria has twenty-one castles which dot its Mediterranean coastline and its deserts.

A whole day, and more, can be spent exploring a pyramid or a castle. If you are curious and unimpaired, walking around the Great Pyramid at Giza is in itself a thrilling experience. In a few hours you can see the massive stone strength of its thick surrounding walls, its square keep, its crow's nest, its apse, its moat.

Some forty-five and more centuries old, and more impressive than the tallest skyscraper that modern man has built. As you walk, you can stop to visit the solar boat pits, to see the symmetrical streets of stone tomb-chapels of nobles closely flanking the pyramid of their pharaoh. You can see the entrance of the Tomb of Queen Hetep-Heres, mother of Cheops. You can walk down the ramp, causeway, which once led down to the Nile and along which blocks of granite were transported to build the Great Pyramid.

Inside the Great Pyramid Climbing the Great Pyramid is a thrilling experience. If you feel a sort of dizzy, agile Arab youth, he provided to help you. Or you can climb up inside the Great Pyramid and visit the Queen's Chamber and the King's Chamber. To feel yourself within the very heart of one of the world's greatest monuments, and the only remaining Seventh Wonder of the Ancient World, is an awesome experience, and gives you a feeling of detachment.

years hence would be foolish to buy a house costing two and a half times his present income.

Several factors are another problem. One lender gives credit for half the wife's income if she is a professional and under 32. Full credit over 32, and no credit for a non-professional working wife under 22.

Income in living standards count too. People on low incomes spend more for housing than people with big incomes. If your income is good,

A Dental Career Can Be Rewarding

All of us are familiar with the fictional movie version of the frontier dentist, a rough and tough character who advertised with the word "painless", and who was as adept with the six-gun as he was with the pliers. Fortunately, such characters are found only in fiction.

The young man of today who decides on dentistry as a profession will be a highly-respected, well-paid and vital member of the nation's health team.

There are about 80,000 licensed dentists in the United States. More than 80,000 of these are in private practice; the others are in research, teaching, Government service and public health.

If you are thinking of dentistry as a career, here are some things you should know: The education requirements are very tough. The course covers a period of at least six years beyond high school, and in many instances up to eight years.

But the rewards can be great. Aside from being a respected community leader, the dentist can anticipate an income upward of $21,000 a year, or even more. (Many of course earn less.)

There are 47 dental schools in the United States, all of which are seeking students whose scholastic records are better than average. To enter one of these schools you must have at least two years of pre-professional education in an accredited junior college or college.

It is surprising in many to learn that in a dental education the student takes many of the same courses required of student doctors. This is because many bodily ills are directly associated with diseases of the mouth, and therefore many patients are referred by doctors to the dentist.

The American Dental Association suggests that the prospective dental student do the following:

1. Discuss dentistry as a career with your family, close friends and teachers.
2. Talk with at least one dentist, preferably several.
3. Take the dental aptitude tests at the end of your first year or during your second year of college.
4. Seek advice and guidance from college counselors.
